That's Italian!

La Biscotteria: authentic Italian bakery close to home

By Jane Knoerle
Almanac Lifestyles Editor

Although he had owned a successful wholesale bakery in Belmont since 1989, Augustine Buonocore's dream was to open an authentic Italian retail bakery. That dream came true when he built La Biscotteria at 2747 El Camino Real, bringing a touch of Italy to that busy section of Redwood City.

The etched glass front door hints at what's inside La Biscotteria ... a shop that would be at home in Deruta or Cortona. Gleaming copper pieces and majolica biscotti jars fill a white hutch on one wall. Glass jars filled with biscotti beckon behind the counter. Colorful posters advertise the foccacia and fresh ravioli the bakery has become known for. It's the little shop around the corner come to life.

As charming as the shop is, it's the product that draws the customers. If you've never tasted freshly-baked biscotti, do yourself a favor and stop by. The twice-baked cookies are full of flavor, not like dry commercial varieties that have lingered too long on the shelf.

The first biscotti Mr. Buonocore made for sale was flavored with traditional anise. Today, he makes anise, lemon, orange, chocolate hazelnut, all plain or chocolate dipped, and raisin. Raisin biscotti has always been considered an adult treat since it is traditionally served with wine after the children leave the table.

or grandmother's recipe, is now featured in tasting rooms at Northern California wineries. Mr. Buonocore credits his grandmother with many of his recipes and says as a youngster he was "always in the kitchen" with her and his aunt.

The sweets at La Biscotteria don't stop with biscotti. The shop features amaretti (almond macaroon cookies), and amaretti kisses (two cookies filled with dark chocolate and sandwiched together). There are luscious cannoli (pastry shells filled with ricotta and mascarpone cheese, liquor, mini dark chocolate chips and orange peel). They must be specially ordered. A box of six is $18. Mr. Buonocore also makes torrone (nougat candy) and panforte (Siena cake) that tastes better than what you find in Siena. La Biscotteria also imports Venchi Italian chocolate bars. Another favorite sweet is chocolate covered figs ($7 a bag).

Mr. Buonocore dips the biscotti in melted chocolate.

During the Christmas holidays, Mr. Buonocore will be baking cucidati: Sicilian fig cookies stuffed with almonds, hazelnuts, orange and lemon peel and figs soaked in liquor (box of 35 cookies $25).

Panettone, sweet bread with raisins and candied fruit, is available throughout the year, but at Christmas the shop will carry star shaped and chocolate chip varieties.

Saturdays are a big day at La Biscotteria. Several varieties of focaccia are sold. Customers know to come early or order in advance. A 1/4 sheet focaccia comes with different toppings: tomato and green onion ($6), veggie ($6), onion ($6), artichoke and pesto ($7), and eggplant, tomato sauce and onion ($9).

The stuffed focaccia menu includes: swiss chard, parmigiano and mozzarella cheese ($12), swiss chard and ground beef ($12), and ham and mozzarella cheese ($10).

Mary Shepherd of Menlo Park was in the shop recently to order focaccia for her son's engagement party. She planned to serve it as an appetizer before a barbecue. She also ordered focaccia to serve 60 at a potluck for the St. Raymond's Church choir the following day.

The Rev. Patrick Michaels, pastor of St. Raymond Catholic Church in Menlo Park, was another visitor that afternoon. He stopped by to bring the store manager, Angela Festa, some of the shop's ravioli he had prepared the night before in a sauce of cherry tomatoes, porcini mushrooms, butter, garlic, onions, and a touch of red pepper flakes. A regular at the shop, Fr. Pat left with a bag of amaretti with chocolate.

The ravioli is filled with veal, beef, chicken, Swiss chard, Parmigiano and Romano cheese. A box of 48 ravioli (one pound) serves three or four people ($9). Mr. Buonocore uses chard, tomatoes, and rosemary from his garden in his recipes.

Another customer, who loaded up on ravioli, homemade breadsticks (8 oz. $6), rosemary crostini (8 oz. $4), and biscotti, said: "I've got wine at home. Now I'm all set for dinner. I used to have to go to San Francisco to get this stuff."

La Biscotteria is charming; the products are delicious, but there's more. Ms. Festa finds time to chat with customers and greets them like old friends. She lets you sample any of the varieties of biscotti. It's a shop where you want to linger for a while.

By the time this article appears, Ms. Festa and Mr. Buonocore will be partners in life, as well as in business. They were married Oct. 28 at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in San Francisco on her parents' 50th wedding anniversary. Their reception was held at Sharon Heights Golf and Country Club.

Mr. Buonocore made the cannoli and biscotti for the wedding reception, but the wedding cake was made by a friend. It was a Saint Honore cake, named for Saint Honore, the patron saint of pastry bakers. A Saint Honore cake consists of a cake base topped with a ring of cream puffs that are filled with rum custard and dipped in caramel. The caramel coating "glues" the puffs together. The center of the ring is traditionally filled with Saint Honore cream, creme patisserie lightened with whipped cream.

The bride, who is an artist, was planning to present her new husband with a special gift at the wedding reception. "I know he'll cry when he sees it," she said. ■

La Biscotteria, 2747 El Camino Real, Redwood City, is open Tuesday through Saturday, closed Sunday and Monday. No credit cards; checks over $10 are accepted. Telephone is 366-2747.

Bellarmino fashion show Nov. 10

Committee members are putting finishing touches on "Silhouettes of Style," the annual Bellarmino fashion show slated for Friday, Nov. 10, at the San Jose Fairmont Hotel. The fundraiser will include a noon luncheon and a black tie dinner dance.

Although Bellarmino College Preparatory is located in San Jose, it has traditionally drawn many of its students from the Menlo Park and Atherton area.

This is the 52nd year for the Mothers' Guild Fashion Show for Financial Aid, with all proceeds used to provide financial aid to qualified Bellarmino College Preparatory students. Nearly 20 percent of the student body will receive financial aid to Bellarmino this year, according to fashion show spokeswoman Jill Montanari.

AROUND TOWN

In the last two years, the traditionally sold-out fashion show has contributed more than $500,000 toward the school's financial aid program.

"Silhouettes of Style" will have fashions from Talbots, Club Monaco, Eli Thomas, Macy's and Jessica McClintock, modeled by Bellarmino seniors and their mothers, faculty, and senior girls from Bay Area high schools.

Allen Denton and Lisa Kim, evening anchors for NBC Channel 11, will be masters of ceremony for the donation drawing during the black tie dinner.

For information on purchasing luncheon or dinner tickets, call 408-294-9224, ext. 209.

Woodside Community Theatre stages 'Anything Goes'

By Kate Daly

Special to the Almanac

Back in 1969, two young boys sat in the audience watching their parents star in Woodside's community production of "Anything Goes." Now grown men, those two actors are taking center stage in the upcoming show of "Anything Goes" at the Woodside High School Performing Arts Center.

On two weekends — Nov. 10-12 and Nov. 17-19 — Woodside Community Theatre's cast of about 45 adults and children will cruise its way through Cole Porter's musical comedy.

The show is one of Broadway's most enduring productions, featuring such popular songs as "You're the Top," "It's De-Lovely," and "I Get a Kick out of You."

"It's a fun, upbeat show, and we have such great dancers we wanted to highlight them with tap dancing," says co-producer Mindy Bowles of Woodside.

All performers tap dance at some point in the show, doing routines many of them started learning last summer from choreographer Gennine Harrington (who once upon a time played Snow White in "Beach Blanket Babylon").

Michael Taylor of Redwood City is the new stage director this year. He acts and sings with companies such as Opera San Jose and West Bay Opera when he's not directing shows.

"We have a wonderful cast ... full of evangelizing chorus girls, wanna-be gangsters, Wall Street big hitters, effete Englishmen, and a sundry chorus, who all get together and do amazing things on a ship set in the 1930s."

This production is the revised 1962 version of "Anything Goes," scripted by Guy Bolton, P.G. Wodehouse, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse.

Cast members Nate Moss as Billy, Robert Snedegar as Moonface Martin, and Sharon Maxwell-Yamamoto as Reno Sweeny, prove anything goes in Woodside Community Theatre's upcoming production of "Anything Goes."

Mr. Taylor says he's particularly impressed with how the actors are "getting to know the characters and making them real people with real emotions."

He calls one of the leads "sultry" because of the way Sharon Maxwell-Yamamoto of Santa Clara portrays Reno Sweeny.

Back in the 1969 Woodside production, Reno was Hanna Wenrick's part. Now her son David, a math teacher at Woodside Elementary, is taking the stage as Sir Evelyn Oakley.

Both of Fletcher Johnson's parents appeared in the 1969 show. This time around, they will be in the audience to watch him reprise the same role his father played, Captain.

Woodside Community Theatre continues to be a family effort in many ways. For the fourth year in a row, Akio Patrick of Woodside is the set builder and his daughter LeeAnn is in the chorus. Donna Losey is co-producing, and her daughter Brigitte, another Woodside Elementary student, is in the chorus as well.

Alison and Emily Ross are a mother/daughter team from Atherton appearing in the chorus. Woodside Elementary sisters, Devon and Alanna McNaughton, are in the chorus, too.

Woodside High School student Lily Meyn plays an angel. Her parents are in charge of props.

Woodside couple Darrell and Darlene Batchelder are doing the show. He's Elijah J. Whitney and she's in the chorus.

Other locals include Redwood City native Nate Moss starring as Billy. He acted in the last two Woodside Community Theatre productions, "Kiss Me, Kate" and "Oklahoma!"

A general casting call went out over the Internet and attracted some farther-flung performers such as Robert Snedegar of Belmont, who is playing Moonface Martin. He has previously appeared at Hillbarn Theatre in Foster City.

Kerie Geni commutes from San Jose to play the role of Hope.

Musical Director Richard Gordon, lives in Woodside and conducts the Woodside Village Band. He will conduct a full orchestra for this show.

Tickets cost $18 for adults, $15 for seniors, and $10 for students. To order, call 562-3900.

The show runs on two consecutive weekends, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 10, 11, 17, and 18 at 7:30 p.m., with matinees offered on Sunday, Nov. 12 and 19 at 2:30 p.m.

The theater is located on the Woodside High School campus, at 199 Churchill Ave., just off of Woodside Road.

For more information go to www.woodsidesideatheatre.org.

Woodside Community Theatre started back in the 1950s with a local group of adults and children performing shows every year. The tradition broke off during the 1990s, and then was revived in 2003 by Mrs. Bowles and her husband Mark, the technical director of "Anything Goes." ▀

Authors' Luncheon set for Nov. 4

Four women authors will take part in the Community Association for Rehabilitation's 15th annual Authors' Luncheon on Saturday, Nov. 4, at the Crowne Plaza Cabana Hotel, 4290 El Camino Real in Palo Alto.

Each year the event draws a sold-out crowd of 600 book lovers. The luncheon is expected to raise $160,000 through ticket sales, sponsors and donations, according to CAR spokeswoman Wendy Kuehnl.

The authors are Marla Frazee, Lynne Cox, Susan Straight and Jacqueline Winspear.

Festivities get under way at 10:30 a.m. when the book salon opens for book sales and signings. The ballroom opens for luncheon seatings at 11:30 a.m. Janice Edwards, NBC 11 host and producer of "Community Focus" and "Bay Area Vista," will be the mistress of ceremonies for the noon luncheon and authors' presentations.

Honorary chairman of Authors' Luncheon is Carolyn Brennan of Palo Alto. Julia Colella Carver of Woodside and Karen Moore of Atherton are co-chairmen. Friends since their youngest boys met in kindergarten, the women both have had friends whose lives have been transformed by services provided by CAR, says Ms. Kuehnl.

Tickets to the luncheon are $100. For ticket information, call 618-3328.

About the authors

■ Marla Frazee is the author/illustrator of children's books including "Roller Coaster," "Santa Claus: The World's Number One Toy Expert," and "Walk On! A Guide for Babies of All Ages." She teaches children's book illustration at the Art Center College of Design in Pasadena.

A stellar example of the uniquely nature-oriented post-modern architecture that flourished throughout mid-century California, this five bedroom residence is enviably located on a quiet cul-de-sac in prime West Atherton. The centerpiece of the design is the richly inviting living and dining room ensemble, crowned by dramatic wedges of angular ceiling and showcasing soaring walls of glass. Outside, stately redwoods and lush gardens connect the broad blue sky with swathes of verdant lawn, evoking a Palm Springs resort ambiance complete with a tranquil tiered fountain and a sparkling stone-edged swimming pool. With its stunning architectural character and large lot of one acre, this unique offering promises the very best of both town and country living.
