BALLOTS TO BE SENT OUT APRIL 7 FOR DISTRICT'S "MAIL ONLY" ELECTION

Voters in the Portola Valley School District will choose between two candidates when they mark their mail-in ballot to elect a new school board member to serve a 17-month term.

Both candidates — Dr. David Morris and Bill Youstra — have experience teaching and working collaboratively on teams in research and on projects. Both say they have a passion for education, and emphasize the importance of preparing students to face changes and challenges of the 21st century.

Beginning April 7, ballots will be mailed to all registered voters in the district. The deadline for returning ballots is May 6. Both candidates have submitted statements that will be mailed with the ballots.

The school board in December called for the special election to fill the remaining term of former trustee Donna Carano. She resigned Oct. 17 — before the Nov. 6 regular election but after the deadline for candidates to file and get on the ballot. The term expires in December 2009.

The board agreed to call an election after splitting 2-2 on making a provisional appointment to fill the unexpired term. The four trustees — Ray Villareal, Don Collat and newly elected trustees Judith Mendelsohn and Steve Humphreys — couldn't muster the three votes needed to appoint either applicant: former board member Karen Jordan or Brad Turner, who came in a close third in the November election.

So they instead decided to let the voters decide.

Dr. Morris and Mr. Youstra said they were not aligned with any of the three candidates in the November election, which, some say, had become "toxic."

During the election campaign last year, candidates' supporters had launched aggressive e-mail, phone and letter-writing campaigns to influence friends and neighbors. Although there didn't appear to be a dividing issue, a difference in perspective centered on change versus the status quo sparked an unusual degree of election year heat.

Three months later, the community appears to have moved closer together and is focusing on how to preserve the district's quality of education in view of a $1 million budget shortfall, both candidates observed.

Bill Youstra sees the budget as the big challenge in both the short and long term.

The candidates will participate in a candidates' night on Monday March 31, starting at 7 p.m. at Corte Madera School, 4575 Alpine Road. The forum's sponsors are the Portola Valley PTO and League of Women Voters.

Both candidates have read the district's strategic plan for the future and have some ideas about the path ahead.

MEET THE CANDIDATES

Here are the candidates' opinions on some key issues.

Strategic plan

Mr. Youstra, who calls the strategic plan a "great document," said that differentiated learning is a component in the plan that resonates with him. Children, he stressed, all learn differently, and recognizing and accommodating a student's learning method can be critical in sparking that child's engagement with learning.

Dr. David Morris places top priority on preparing students to be critical and creative thinkers.

He said he would like implementation of the plan to move faster to accelerate getting tools into the hands of teachers.

Dr. Morris said he would increase the plan's emphasis on the study of foreign language, including more languages in the curriculum and exposing children to language studies in lower grade levels.

Visitation day at Ormondale

The date for parents to visit Ormondale, Portola Valley's K-3 school, has been changed to Wednesday, April 9.

Parents who have children who will be attending Ormondale in August are invited to meet with Principal Jennifer Warren in the school library at 8:30 a.m. and then visit classrooms. Student registration packets will be available. There is no need to register for the event.

For information, call the school at 851-1151, ext.1151. Ormondale is located at 200 Shawnee Pass, Portola Valley.

He said he also supports expanding the breadth of student experience, including increased exposure and opportunities for students "to think outside Portola Valley."

Coming from the experience of a trained scientist, he said he embraces the importance of involving American students in science, and of involving teachers in "learning opportunities" such as summer partnerships in science and industry that would energize them and their students.

The $1 million shortfall

Mr. Youstra said he supports the district's approach and process of looking at a three-year horizon by belt-tightening in areas outside the classroom, tapping the district's reserves, and seeking additional funding from the education foundation.

This approach, he said, will allow time to look at the financial realities and structural changes that might be needed. "Let's not mess with the teaching culture," he said.

Dr. Morris said he would take an analytical view of where every dollar goes. He said he supports "peeling back the layers of the strategic plan" and assigning priorities to determine "what we must have, what we would like to have, and what would be nice to have — but not now."

Challenges ahead

Mr. Youstra sees the budget as the big challenge in both the short and long term. "We need to find a way to isolate the children and schools from the impact of financial shock" and keep up the morale of the teachers, he said. The district, he said, needs to further engage parents and the broader community.

Mr. Morris said he places a top priority on preparing students to be critical and creative thinkers who are involved in their learning, and also have time to dream. Children learn best, he said, by being involved in "experiential learning," sometimes called "investigative learning," and interacting with people. ■

NEWS OF LOCAL PEOPLE AND EVENTS IN THE COMMUNITY

M-A senior named 'Climate Champion'

By Dave Boyce
Almanac Staff Writer

Local delis and cafes that offer customers traditional plastic knives and forks and toss the day's uneaten food into the garbage may receive a visit this summer from a certified global-warming fighter.

Anna Murveit, a Menlo-Atherton High School senior and Ladera resident, was named Tuesday as one of 15 California Climate Champions by the state Air Resources Board.

Ms. Murveit said in an interview that she is planning to spend part of the summer researching what small businesses can do to reduce carbon-dioxide output and then offer ideas, free-of-charge, to local enterprises so as to "make a statement in our community."

Throw-away cutlery made from starch is available to restaurants and it decomposes gracefully, as would uneaten food if properly composted, she noted.

The Climate Change Champions will keep in touch online to share ideas and support each other, she said in an e-mail.

Ms. Murveit leads the student Environmental Committee at M-A, which since September has put recycling bins in every classroom, sold reusable plastic bottles to break kids of the bottled-water habit, and bought breakfast for students who ride bikes to school on the last Wednesday of the month.

"I have a lot of ideas as to what to do next on a larger scale," Ms. Murveit told the Almanac.

The M-A committee, she said, is spreading the word about Earth

Hour, in which individuals and organizations turn off their lights for a symbolic hour between 8 and 9 p.m. local time on Saturday, March 29.

The event began in Sydney in 2007, where the energy saved during an hour of lights-out equaled taking 48,616 cars off the road for a year, according to the Earth Hour Web site.

Some 2,818 Australian businesses have signed up to participate in Earth Hour, as of March 21. Other countries listed include Canada with 1,951 businesses, the United Kingdom with 157, Venezuela with 11, and Iran with three. The United States tied with Ecuador and Mali at one business each.

M-A's Environmental Committee recently arranged for a retired professor who trained with the Al Gore's Climate Project to speak to M-A students. "I actually think it would be effective to have a kid give a presentation," Ms. Murveit said. She said she would have liked to train with Mr. Gore, but the U.S. program is now closed. ■

'Charming Cottages' tour in Palo Alto

That popular rite of spring, the house and garden tour, takes off April 4 and 5 with the 17th annual "Charming Cottages of Palo Alto" tour, sponsored by the Palo Alto Area Mills College Club.

One new home and four remodeled homes will be featured in the tour, to be held from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 4 and 5.

The remodeled homes date from the 1920s through the 1950s.

The new home is "green" throughout. It boasts passive solar, radiant heat in concrete floors, natural lighting, and ventilation from windows and doors with transoms that manage temperature without a fireplace or furnace.

Polly Osborne is the architect. The contractor is Drew Maran Construction/Design Inc.

Barbara Hunter of Menlo Park is chairman of the house tour, assisted by Barbara Evans. Judy Castaillac

'Friends' remember supporter, puppeteer Patricia Brown

The Friends of the Portola Valley Library will honor and remember Patricia "Pat" Brown, a longtime supporter, at 3 p.m. Thursday, April 3, at the Historic Schoolhouse at Town Center, 765 Portola Road in Portola Valley.

An organizer of the event, Sue Chaput, urges people to carpool and to look for parking directions.

Ms. Brown, who was president and treasurer of the Friends group for many years, died Dec. 26 at her home in Westridge.

In 1967, Ms. Brown and her husband, Robert V. "Bob" Brown, were "key in creating an official Friends of the Library and spearheaded a campaign to support a permanent site" for the library, Ms. Chaput said. "Their vision for a children's library was realized as well."

An avid storyteller and puppeteer, Ms. Brown is remembered by many schoolchildren for her puppet shows and story hours at local schools and libraries. She was a member of the Palo Alto Storytellers Guild.

"Her spirit of invention provoked props and puppets — anything from a large piece of paper and marking pens, paper bags, papier mache, vegetables — to outrageous hand-made puppets,"

DVD tributes

Videographer Allan Hayes will talk about his business of creating DVD tributes that tell a story from photos and videos at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 5, at the Menlo Park Library. The talk is part of a series of monthly programs sponsored by the Friends of the Menlo Park Library. A Palo Alto resident, Mr. Hayes is also a photographer.

The program is free and open to the public. Free van service is available for Menlo Park seniors and those with disabilities. For more information or to schedule transportation, call 330-2512.

Tom Chapin sings at family concerts

Singer and songwriter Tom Chapin returns to the area for two family "Music for Minors" concerts on Sunday, March 30. The concerts will be at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. in Foothill College's Smithwick Theater, 12345 El Monte Road in Los Altos Hills.

Tom Chapin

Recommended for participants from age 4 and up, the concerts are sponsored by Music for Minors and Linden Tree Children's Recordings and Books. Tickets are $14 each.

Mr. Chapin "expands knowledge, stretches the imagination, tickles the funny bone and inspires audience participation while introducing children to the joys of live performance," according to a review in the Washington Post.

Concert proceeds go to Music for Minors, a nonprofit organization providing music education programs to more than 6,000 Bay Area school children. For information, contact Music For Minors at 237-9130 or go to www.mfm.org. Tickets may be ordered online at www.lindentreebooks.com.

Creative Director

Embarcadero Publishing Co. is seeking a multi-media design professional who shares our passion for quality, innovative and interactive community journalism in both print and on the Web, and our goal of establishing a model for online community engagement.

The Creative Director will oversee our Palo Alto Weekly/Palo Alto Online design and production department and is responsible for all design and production activities for print and online, including newspaper and Website design, creation of print and online advertising, and the development of all collateral materials. You will be an instrumental part of our online product design team, which develops Web content tools for the company's many Websites.

You will serve as a member of the Palo Alto Weekly/Palo Alto Online management teams and manage a department of 4-6 designers and a three-person advertising services team.

The successful candidate will have experience in print and online page design and ideas for how information is best presented in varied formats, including Web pages, mobile Web browsers, cell phone messaging and online video.

You will have managed a design or production work team and have a well-developed collaborative work style that inspires others to produce outstanding work under deadline pressure. You will also have a demonstrated ability to successfully work across departments with editors and advertising sales executives to meet their goals, and a strong knowledge and interest in product marketing.

Working knowledge of InDesign, Photoshop, Illustrator, Flash, and HTML is essential. A background in magazine design and production and videography is highly desirable.

Submit your letter of interest and resume via e-mail to Bill Johnson, President of Embarcadero Publishing Co. at bjohnson@embarcaderopublishing.com. Deadline is March 28; position is open until filled.

Katherine McGuire watercolors at Portola Gallery

In her first solo exhibit at the Portola Art Gallery at Allied Arts in Menlo Park, Katherine McGuire captures scenes from familiar San Francisco landmarks. Rows of colorful houses along the Great Highway, the Cliff House, and Baker Beach are among her subjects.

Her artwork includes traditional watercolor on paper, as well as watercolor on canvas.

"San Francisco: Contemporary Watercolors by Katherine McGuire" opens Tuesday, April 1, and continues through April 30. A reception from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 5, will include a performance by Cecilia's Flamenco Dancers at 3 p.m. It is free and open to the public.

Cecilia Glower of Los Altos and her students will perform the dances. Flamenco dances were chosen to highlight the 1920s Spanish architecture of Allied Arts Guild, says Ms. McGuire.

The Palace of Fine Arts is among the San Francisco landmarks featured in an exhibition of paintings by Katherine McGuire at Portola Art Gallery.

Ms. McGuire grew up in Iowa and lived in Southern California before moving to Menlo Park in 2005. She worked at the Cantor Arts Center on the Stanford campus until October 2006.

Now she is back to painting full-time. Last year she began to paint plein air with oil paints in addition to her watercolor work. "I haven't used oil paints since I was in college and I really enjoy the challenge of the medium," she says.

“My clients on Arbor Road in Allied Arts made a last minute decision to list their home during the holidays, knowing this is traditionally not a prime time to sell. After just 5 days, they were able to negotiate and get into contract with a clean offer for over asking and a quick close. They were thrilled! I only wish I had more properties like this to sell to all of the desperate buyers who are out there looking...every day of the year.”

Multimedia Advertising SALES CAREER

Embarcadero Publishing Company publishes 6 community newspapers and produces award winning special publications and websites. Our sales division is growing and we are looking for dynamic sales reps who want to be part of a leading, locally owned, media company.

Inside Sales Reps

We are looking for dynamic, outgoing, professional inside sales representatives who will be based in our Palo Alto office.

The successful candidate will have:

- Excellent communication skills: in person, on the phone, and through the internet
- Great enthusiasm for helping small to medium sized businesses market themselves to consumers
- Serious work ethic - ready to go the extra mile to service your clients
- Ability to generate ideas, concepts and have the vision to present this to local and regional businesses
- Ability to work in a team environment - contributing to the growth of the overall organization, as well as your specific territory/account list

This position offers a base salary, commissions, 401k and excellent health benefits.

If you feel you are a qualified candidate for this position and want to grow your sales career with a dynamic media company, please send your resumé to Adam Cone, Inside Sales Manager
 acone@pawekly.com

Qualified candidates will be contacted for a personal interview.
