'UNDER THE OAKS'

Local authors write about 200 years of Atherton history

By Andrea Gemmet | ALMANAC STAFF WRITER

Atherton has long been an enclave of wealthy families, but in the early days, it wasn't quite as posh as it is now.

When the town was divided into sprawling country estates owned by San Francisco's elite, regular cattle drives ran down Middlefield Road, prompting warnings to keep gates and doors firmly closed in case a straying steer decided to take a detour into someone's yard. And when residents fell on hard times during the Great Depression, finding a buyer for an estate was so difficult, it seemed you couldn't give the land away.

In the past 200 years, there's been a rich assortment of scandals, romances and tragedies lived out by debutantes, inventors and tycoons, and now that history of Atherton has been compiled into a weighty, 281-page full-color coffee table book by local authors Pamela Gullard and Nancy Lund.

The duo, who most recently published a history of Portola Valley entitled "Life on the San Andreas Fault," spent the past six years researching and writing "Under the Oaks: Two Hundred Years in Atherton."

Using documents, diaries, photographs and transcripts of old interviews with longtime Atherton residents, the pair sought to flesh out familiar stories and turn up new ones.

The oft-repeated tale of the race to the courthouse to incorporate Atherton and keep it from being absorbed into Menlo Park — usually told as a frantic ride to Sacramento on horseback — is a little less dramatic. It took place on horseback, all right, but the race was to the nearby courthouse in Redwood City, not all the way to Sacramento, says Ms. Gullard.

"One of us read all of the accounts," she says, glancing over at Ms. Lund. "What's interesting is that they were on horses in 1924. The mix of cars and horses went on for longer than we realized."

The origins of the Menlo Circus Club are well-known in town — a group of horse-loving Atherton girls organized a charity circus in 1920, complete with costumes and performing pets. The event grew, and four years later, a group of 16 families purchased the Circus Club property. What they didn't know was why the girl elected queen of the festivities each year was called "Polly of the Circus," says Ms. Gullard.

After much digging, they discovered a 1908 novel of the same name by Margaret Mayo, a romantic melodrama about a daring young equestrienne that was apparently a favorite of the Circus Club girls. A photo from the 1922 circus shows Queen Polly and her honor guard leading the opening procession.

Their efforts to dig up information were occasionally frustrated. While many of Atherton's early female residents were powerhouses in their own rights, running the estates and founding cultural institutions in San Francisco, including schools, museums, hospitals and churches, information about them could be slim.

"It's hard sometimes to even find out the first names of the women," says Ms. Gullard. In many cases, a woman was only known by her married name — Mrs. Henry Moore, for instance.

"Being women ourselves, it would have been nice to find some diaries or documents (about them). Running an estate would have been a lot like running a corporation," she says.

But despite some setbacks, there were also some real treasures that turned up. The section on famous inventor Leon Douglass, whose lovely estate is now home to Menlo School, is derived largely from an unpublished contemporary memoir provided by his grandson, Earl Douglass Jr. The pair kept hearing hints that such a document had been written, and were thrilled to get access to it.

"I'm just so impressed with all of the information that they found," said Marion Oster, the head of the Atherton Heritage Association.

The group approached Ms. Lund and Ms. Gullard about 12 years ago with the idea of doing a book on Atherton, but at the time, the duo was busy working on the Portola Valley book. They'd thought to do Menlo Park next, but in 2000, another pair of local historians, Michael Svanevik and Shirley Burgett, published "Menlo Park: Beyond the Gate," effectively quashing that idea.

Ms. Oster credits the Heritage Association's previous president, Sally Bush, as the motivating force for the book.

"She kept saying, 'We need to do a history of the town of Atherton, there's never been a real comprehensive one,'" says Ms. Oster. "We didn't know how in the world we could make it happen, because we're not a big group."

When Ms. Lund and Ms. Gullard decided to take on the task, it was and the University of Notre Dame de Namur in Belmont, and is a published short story author. Ms. Lund is the Portola Valley town historian and a longtime teacher in the Las Lomas School District.

Delving into local history was not only interesting, but helpful to her career, Ms. Lund says.

"Teaching fourth-grade history, and not being a California native, I needed to keep ahead of my students," she says.

She took classes and, in 1974, created a booklet on the history of Ladera. Ms. Lund met Ms. Gullard when their husbands began commuting together to Intel, and later approached her with perfect, she said.

"What's interesting is, you open the door a crack, and all of a sudden you see so much more," says Ms. Oster, using the example of Holbrook-Palmer Park, which was bequeathed to the town by Olive Holbrook, whose father Charles bought the property in 1881.

"They came in with a few questions about Holbrook-Palmer Park, then they investigated Charles Holbrook, and then they made the connection between the Holbrook and Merrill (families)," says Ms. Oster. "They made contact with descendants on both sides, and made copies of the diary Charles Merrill wrote. It gave such insight into what it was like during the Depression."

In fact, descendants of the Merrill family had volumes and volumes of diaries written by Charles Holbrook Merrill in the first half of the 20th century. His wife Phyllis Moulton, a co-founder of Peninsula School and the Menlo Circus Club, came from one of the first families to live in Atherton full time, moving there in 1890.

"They lent us all those diaries. What a treasure!" says Ms. Lund, appreciatively.

Ms. Gullard, a Menlo Park resident, teaches writing at Menlo College the idea of collaborating on a local history book.

As a historian, Ms. Lund says she appreciates working with an author.

Their first book chronicled the history of Palo Alto and was published in 1989, in time for the city's centennial. The call from the publisher, saying that they wanted to print the book, came only a few days after Ms. Gullard's second child was born, she says.

They knew they were taking a risk with their book on Atherton — it's a small town of fewer than 2,500 households, and hence, a small market.

"It's really hard to do a quality book for a very small market. We're sorry to put a really high price on it," says Ms. Lund. The book costs $75 a copy.

They thought about going without color and making the book smaller, and thus cheaper, but were encouraged not to go that route.

"People told us, 'Make it as beautiful as you can, because there will probably never be another history book (about the town) in our lifetimes.' So we did," says Ms. Lund. "It was a leap of faith that (Atherton residents) would want a book about their town."

So far, early indications from pre-sales of the book are promising, she says. ■

You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee, ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you

Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y mas informacion en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp/espanol/), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le quede mas cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentacion, pida al secretario de la corte que le de un formulario de exencion de pago de cuotas. Proposition 65 Warning

L-3 Communications Randtron Antenna Systems operates facilities located at and around 130 Constitution Dr., Menlo Park which uses and emits chemicals known to the State of California to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm. We do not believe that any person is exposed to these chemicals at levels constituting a health or safety risk. However, we have not made a formal determination that actual exposure levels are below the Proposition 65 "no significant risk" levels for carcinogens or "no observable effect" levels for chemicals known to cause reproductive harm, and we have not performed a risk analysis to determine the precise amount of exposure that any individual would receive over a 70 year period. Proposition 65 therefore obligates us to provide this warning to potentially effected individuals. Further information may be obtained by contacting L-3 Randtron Antenna Systems at 650-326-9500 Ext. 483. (Almanac Sept. 9, 2009)
