

The elegant artichoke

Artichokes and asparagus say spring to the cook. After a dreary winter of devising a dozen ways to cook chard or broccoli, it's refreshing to go to the market and stock up on the season's bounty.

As vegetables go, artichokes aren't easy. They are troublesome to prepare and messy to eat. But inside the thorny exterior is a vegetable that has been prized for its unique flavor since ancient times.

A tough and thorny exterior hides a delectable heart prized for centuries for its flavor

Artichokes are thought to be native to Sicily. The plant is mentioned in Greek and Roman literature as far back as 77 A.D. Italians have been cooking artichokes for centuries. They boil them, fry them, bake them, and put them in sauce for pasta.

When Italian immigrants came to California in the late 1800s, they soon planted their prickly favorite. The first commercial artichoke fields were planted in Castroville in the 1920s.

Castroville proclaims itself the artichoke capital of the world and celebrates with an artichoke festival, which will be held May 15 and 16 this year. Marilyn Monroe, then a young unknown, was crowned the festival's California Artichoke Queen in 1948.

Castroville is also home to the Giant Artichoke restaurant, which serves its favorite vegetable in many ways, from soup to bread. Judging from restaurant reviews in Yelp, the food is not great, except for the deep fried artichoke hearts.

Duarte's Tavern in Pescadero is famous for artichoke soup, made with baby artichoke hearts, cream, chicken broth, and other good things.

Most of us are familiar with the large globe artichoke, but baby artichokes, long known to Italian cooks, have become trendy in the food world. Both Bon Appetit and Sunset magazines feature them in articles this spring.

Baby artichokes are fully mature artichokes that grow closer to the ground, sheltered by the large leaves of the plant. They are easy to cook and prepare because the inner fuzzy portion of the choke does not develop, according to the Ocean Mist Farms Web site.

To prepare them, snap off the lower petals until you reach the yellow-green core. Use a knife and cut off the top half-inch of the baby artichoke. Trim the stems and all remaining dark green areas from the base. Baby artichokes can be steamed over rapid boiling water for 15 to 20 minutes until tender. They may also be grilled, roasted or sauteed.

Baby artichokes are available locally at Sigona's markets in Redwood City and Palo Alto.

Baby artichokes at Cedro

Penne with baby artichokes was one of the pasta specials that Maria Nevigato prepared for opera night recently at Cedro Ristorante Italiano, the family's restaurant at 1010 El Camino Real, No. 140, in Menlo Park.

at Cedro and features three opera singers in a 30-minute performance, as well as dinner. The next opera night takes place Wednesday, April 21, with two seatings: 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Cedro is a family affair, with Maria as chef, her daughter, Elizabeth as manager, and Elizabeth's father, Giuseppe, and brother, David, helping out.

Although not of Italian descent, Maria Nevigato is a "born-again Italian" who learned to cook from her Italian-born mother-in-law, also named Maria. Maria's mother and her future mother-in-law were good friends. "She was like a second mom to me," the younger Maria says.

Growing up in Menlo Park and East Palo Alto, Maria started cooking when she was about 9. One of the first things she learned to make was gnocchi, which she called "little pillows."

Penne with baby artichokes is a dish Ms. Nevigato says she can put together easily. "The beautiful thing about it is you can eat the

EAT A PIZZA FOR PROJECT READ

Amici's East Coast Pizzeria in Menlo Park is sponsoring a fundraiser on Tuesday, April 27, from 5 to 10 p.m. that will let you chow down on pizza, pasta and other menu items while supporting adult literacy education in the community.

"Raise Some Dough!" will benefit Project Read-Menlo Park. During those five hours, 25 percent of the bill for Amici's patrons who bring in a flier (available through Project Read) will be donated to the program, which provides free tutoring for adults with limited English reading and writing skills.

The 25 percent contribution to the program applies to both dine-in and take-out orders, only at the Amici's at 880 Santa Cruz Ave.

Project Read has provided one-on-one tutoring to thousands of adults since its establishment in 1985. It currently has more than 90 volunteer tutors and 125 learners, according to Roberta Roth, literacy outreach specialist.

Although the program gets most of its funding from the city of Menlo Park, it is increasingly relying on private donations and fundraising events as public funding dwindles during these dire economic times.

WHAT'S COOKING

Food news in brief

Patrons must bring the "Raise Some Dough!" flier to the restaurant to participate in the fundraiser that night. It can be downloaded at projectreadmenlopark.org by clicking on Upcoming Events. It is also available at the Menlo Park Library at 800 Alma St.

For more information, call the Project Read office at 330-2525.

Marché open for lunch

For the first time since opening in 2001, Marché restaurant in downtown Menlo Park is serving lunch five days a week, Monday through Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Chef Guillaume Bienaime has created a menu of lighter fare with salads, sandwiches, entrees, and desserts. Dishes will include golden beet carpaccio with harissa-spiced pistachios, orange and French feta, asparagus soup with fennel and potato veloute, short rib sandwich on baguette, and Alaskan true cod with asparagus.

The restaurant also announced it is now serving dinner on Monday nights — formerly a "dark" night.

Marché is located at 898 Santa Cruz Ave. in Menlo Park.

whole artichoke."

Cedro sometimes also features a whole roasted globe artichoke as an a la carte special. It is served with a lemon caper sauce.

Artichokes on the menu

An extra-large roasted artichoke, served with shrimp and crab, is the most popular item on the menu at Buck's of Woodside, according to owner Jamis MacNiven, who says Buck's sells 15,000 artichokes a year.

The roasted artichoke entree is also featured in the WoodHouse Fish Co. restaurants operated in San Francisco by Jamis' sons, Rowan and Dylan.

A popular appetizer at Carpaccio in downtown Menlo Park is an artichoke bottom with bay shrimp and herb sauce. It's been on the menu for as long as I can remember and is a customer favorite.

At Marche restaurant on Santa Cruz Avenue, chef Guillaume Bienaime prepares a barigoule of artichoke, fennel and prosciutto served with California white bass. The Web identifies a barigoule as an artichoke stew, prepared with fresh artichoke hearts. Mr. Bienaime says his barigoule is more of a garnish for the fish.

One fondly remembered dish I haven't seen on a menu for years is a stuffed artichoke, which was a popular item at Mama Leone's old-time restaurant in New York City. As I recall, the stuffing was made from bread crumbs, sausage, parmesan cheese, parsley and garlic.

The trend today is toward simple preparation, letting the unique taste of the elegant artichoke shine through. ■

Penne with Baby Artichokes

(Penne con Carciofi)

- 6 baby artichokes
- 4 fresh tomatoes, diced
- 4 garlic cloves
- Extra virgin olive oil
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- Sprig of rosemary
- 1 T. fresh basil

After rinsing artichokes, snap off lower petals until you reach the yellow-green core. Use a knife and cut off the top half-inch of the baby artichoke, or just below the green tips of the petals. Trim the stems and all remaining dark-green areas from the base. Cut artichokes into quarters and place in 4 cups ice water with 1/2 cup lemon juice or vinegar to keep them from discoloring while you work.

Place artichokes in small pot with two cups of water, mashed garlic clove, 1 teaspoon olive oil, sprig of rosemary, and salt to taste. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes, until tender. Strain artichokes and put aside.

While artichokes are cooking, put 2 tablespoons olive oil, teaspoon of minced garlic, teaspoon of minced onion in sauce pan over medium heat. Add two cups fresh tomatoes. Bring to simmer and saute for 3 to 5 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add artichokes and basil.

Serve over penne, top with basil leaves and parmesan cheese.

EYE CARE NEWS

Presented by
Mark Schmidt
Licensed Optician

HOW SHARP IS YOUR VISION?

To determine visual acuity, a person must sit 20 feet in front of a Snellen Chart ("E Chart") and read the printed letters. The distance of 20 feet is used for testing purposes because, at that distance, the eye is relaxed and its lens is in a neutral position (not trying to focus). At 20 feet, those with normal visual acuity can clearly read three-eighths-inch letters. They are said to have "20/20 vision" because at 20 feet from the chart, they see what a normally sighted person sees at 20 feet. When a person's visual acuity is worse than normal, the second number will be larger than 20. Visual acuity is only one factor used to determine overall visual ability.

There are many new styles in eyewear on the market today. If you have not had an opportunity to see these styles first hand, please visit MENLO OPTICAL at 1166 University Drive, on the corner of Oak Grove Avenue and University Drive. We carry a wide selection of eye-catching designer frames in several sizes, colors, and materials. Please call us at 322-3900 if you have any questions about this week's column. We work with several ophthalmologists in the area and can recommend one to you.

P.S. A person with 20/40 vision can see at 20 feet what a normally sighted person sees at 40 feet.

Mark Schmidt is an American Board of Opticianry and National Contact Lens Examiners Certified Optician licensed by the Medical Board of California. He can be easily reached at Menlo Optical, 1166 University Drive, Menlo Park. 650-322-3900.

"Spring into Auction," Woodside High School's annual benefit auction, will be held from 5:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday, April 24, at the Menlo Circus Club in Atherton.

Among the items in this year's auction is a "golden key to the garden," where the winning bidder visits the school's garden once a week for a year to stock up on seasonal fruits and vegetables. The garden, located on campus, is part of the school's Green Academy. Students care for the garden, under the guidance of teacher Josh Rubin.

A dinner for six with school principal David Reilly, donated and hosted by the Woodside Bakery, is another auction item. Among trips up for bid is a visit to New York City, with accommodations at a private apartment overlooking Central Park.

Britt-Marie Sundquist is chair of the event. Her committee includes Leslie Ballinger of Woodside and Kathleen Carr of Portola Valley, president of the Woodside High School Foundation.

Cost of the dinner and live auction is $100 per person. The cost for cocktails and the silent auction is $50 per person. For more information, call 299-9711, or go to woodsidehs.org and click on WHS Foundation.

"Stripes," a painting by Mitchell Johnson

Mitchell Johnson paintings exhibited at Flea Street Cafe

Fine food and fine art come together at Flea Street Cafe in West Menlo Park: Paintings by Mitchell Johnson will be exhibited through April at Jesse Coolis flagship restaurant — just down the Alameda de las Pulgas from Mr. Johnson's home.

"To have some paintings up at Flea Street is nice, because a lot of my shows are out of the area," said Mr. Johnson, a longtime Menlo Park resident.

One such out-of-town show is currently featured at the Royal Danish Embassy in Washington, D.C., through April 26.

Mr. Johnson has exhibited his work throughout the Bay Area and in many areas of the United States and Europe, particularly in Italy, where he has for years spent much time painting the Tuscan landscape.

But one can also view Mr. Johnson's work from the comfort of the living room sofa, with the help of a DVD player. Three of his paintings played a role in the recent film It's Complicated, starring Meryl Streep, Steve Martin and Alec Baldwin. The landscapes — two from France and one from Denmark — were hung in the home of a key character in the movie, Mr. Johnson said.

CITY OF MENLO PARK MUNICIPAL WATER DISTRICT PROPOSING WATER RATE INCREASES

COMMUNITY MEETING

APRIL 21, 2010

6:30-8:00 P.M.

BURGESS RECREATION CENTER, ROOM 118
700 ALMA STREET, MENLO PARK

The City of Menlo Park Municipal Water District purchases all of the water it provides to its customers from the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC). The SFPUC is planning, designing, and constructing multiple improvement projects to increase the safety and reliability of their Hetch Hetchy water supply system. In order to finance these improvements, the SFPUC has increased the wholesale water prices by more than 60% over the last four years and projects that their prices will double over the next five years. The City of Menlo Park Municipal Water District is proposing to phase in a series of water rate increases over the next five years as a result of these SFPUC wholesale rate increases.

The City's water rates currently consist of three components: (1) a fixed monthly charge based on meter size; (2) a capital surcharge per hundred cubic feet, ccf; and (3) a water usage charge based on metered water consumption. Rate increases are being considered for each component. The City will also be considering different rate structures for metered water consumption.

The City will hold a Community Meeting to present information and answer any questions relating to the proposed rate increases. Information will also be available at the meeting to assist customers who would like to reduce their water bills through water conservation.

Information is also available on the City's website at www.MenloPark.org or by phone at (650) 330-6740.
