

Donia Bijan picks low-hanging apples while her husband and son, Mitchell and Luca Johnson, help harvest harder-to-reach fruit from an abundantly producing tree in the family's backyard. Below, this whole wheat apple bread, cooling on the backyard picnic table, is one of several results of the apple harvest.

Finding a place

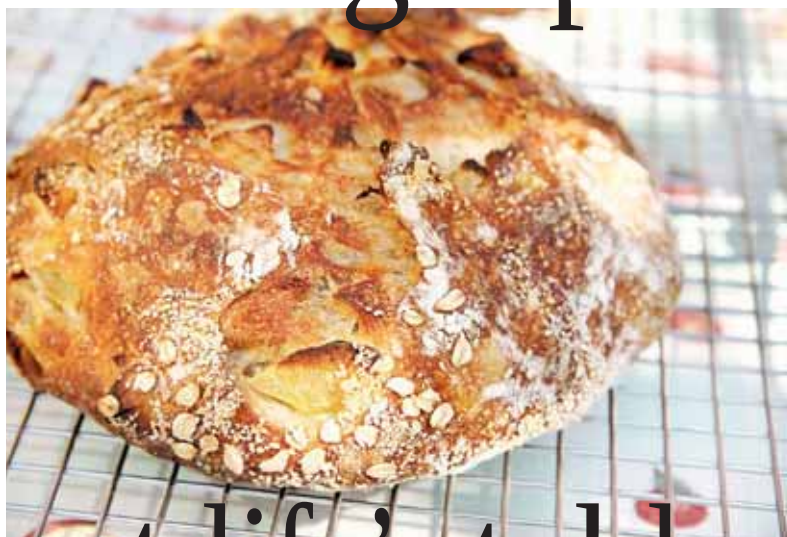

At the time former restaurateur Donia Bijan began writing down memories of her parents' lives, she was wracked by grief over the unexpected and gruesome death of her beloved mother, Menlo Park resident Atefeh "Amy" Bijan.

Ms. Bijan, the owner and chef of the highly regarded L'Amie Donia restaurant in Palo Alto, now closed, felt compelled to leave a record for her son and her sisters' children about their grandparents, who immigrated to the United States after being exiled from their homeland in 1978, at the beginning of the Iranian Revolution.

The project of remembering through writing germinated as Ms. Bijan sorted through her mother's possessions, eight days after Amy Bijan, still vital and fit at 75, was struck and killed by a car while walking in a crosswalk on Santa Cruz Avenue in January 2004.

Entering her mother's home a few days after the funeral, Ms. Bijan worked somberly amid the scent of tea and roses, "sorting and packing the boxes I had lined up by her cabinets like little coffins, filling them with cups and saucers wrapped in newspaper, and spoons, spatulas, and whisks," she would write later.

During the course of packing up, Ms. Bijan came across a collection of papers tucked into a kitchen drawer — newspaper clippings from food sections and loose pages from notepads with recipes written, in English and in Farsi, in her mother's hand. They were recipes for American dishes, dating back to the year her parents arrived in this country, leaving behind all their possessions, including the hospital they built and operated, to be looted in the frenzy of revolution.

It was then that Ms. Bijan began musing about the connection between food and belonging — the link between the ritual of the table and the ability to find one's place in the world.

"I knew when I found those recipes that something was there, and that I was going to find that something — I was going to find the key to open the door," she says during a recent interview in the sunny backyard of the Menlo Park home she shares with her husband, artist Mitchell Johnson, and their 10-year-old son, Luca.

Her mother, she says, "had Persian cuisine down," but when she lost her homeland, she had an instinctual understanding that embracing the cuisine of her adopted country would allow her to find a place in the new, sometimes baffling world in which she found herself transplanted.

Earthquakes give clinic for youth soccer players

The San Jose Earthquakes and the Menlo Park-Atherton AYSO Region 109 held a soccer clinic on Aug. 31 at Burgess Park in Menlo Park.

Five Earthquakes players — including two Menlo Park residents, Bobby Burling and Jason Hernandez — led kids age 9 and above through an hour-long skills clinic. The clinic was for soccer players who had registered for the fall 2011 session.

“Bobby and I love getting out into the community and any time you get to do something special in your own backyard, it means even more,” said said Hernandez, No. 21 on the San Jose Earthquakes.

Rex Bessler, an AYSO Region 109

player and Menlo Park resident, said he goes to the Earthquakes games, so getting to see the players up close was “really amazing.”

“The players were friendly and encouraging,” he added.

As part of the ongoing collaboration between Menlo Park-Atherton AYSO Region 109 and the San Jose Earthquakes, more than 1,600 children who are part of the region had a chance to attend the Sept. 10 game between San Jose Earthquakes and Chicago Fire.

AYSO Region 109 is an all-volunteer youth soccer league that serves the Menlo Park-Atherton community. It has 140 teams, 430 coaches, and 170 referees. AYSO Region 109 is an all-volunteer organization.

New director for Djerassi artists program

Margot H. Knight is the new director of the Djerassi Resident Artists Program in Woodside, an internationally recognized artist community.

Since 2001, Ms. Knight has served as president and CEO of United Arts of Central Florida, headquartered in the Orlando area.

She succeeds Dennis O’Leary, who retired in August after serving as the program’s executive director for 14 years. Ms. Knight will take up her new duties in November.

Now in its 33rd year, the Djerassi program offers free four-week residencies to visual artists, writers, media artists, composers and choreographers from the United States and abroad.

The mission of the program is to enhance the creativity of artists by providing uninterrupted time for work, reflection and collegial interaction in a setting of natural beauty. The residencies have allowed more than 2,000 artists, about 90 a year, to concentrate on creative work away from the distractions of daily life.

The Djerassi Resident Artists Program was founded in 1979 by Stanford University Professor Emeritus Carl Djerassi. It is located at 2325 Bear Gulch Road in Woodside.

Rodney Pearlman is chairman of the Djerassi board of trustees.

Arts & crafts fest in Menlo Park

More than 90 artists and craftspeople will take part in the 15th Menlo Park Sidewalk Arts & Crafts Fall Fest on Friday, Oct. 14, through Sunday, Oct. 16, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

Artists will be on hand to visit with patrons, with some demonstrating their crafts during the festival. Paintings, jewelry, photography, wood items, clothing, accessories, toys and much more will be for sale during the annual event.

Visit tinyurl.com/Fest-193 for more information.

Donia Bijan carries the apple pie she has just assembled into the kitchen to bake.

“She found that you can lose everything, lose your home even, and find a sense of place in the kitchen,” Ms. Bijan says. “It doesn’t matter where that kitchen is. ... It’s the power of food: You can hit rock bottom and a taste can cure you — give you something sensory to hold on to. It’s what will bring you comfort at the end of the day.”

As grief clouded her days and memories of her mother overwhelmed her, Ms. Bijan wrote. “There was nothing else I could do,” she says. “I was incapacitated.”

She also closed her restaurant that year after 10 years, finding that continuing “was just too much” — particularly with a 2-year-old son whom her mother had helped care for during Ms. Bijan’s long days in the popular bistro’s kitchen.

The writing project consumed several years, but she had no intention of publishing the work. It was the relentless encouragement of her husband, she says, that led her finally to seek a publisher.

The result is “Maman’s Homesick Pie: A Persian Heart in an American Kitchen,” which is being released next week.

The book is billed by publisher Algonquin as a memoir, and each chapter concludes with recipes, some reflecting Amy Bijan’s culinary passions and skills, others developed by Donia Bijan as she melded flavors of Persian, French and other cuisines.

Its narrative moves back, forth and beyond geographically — from Tehran, where Ms. Bijan was born and lived until she was 15, when the family left for a vacation in Spain but was unable to return home after the country exploded in turmoil; to the United States, where the entire family eventually settled and Ms. Bijan took a degree in French from the University of California, Berkeley; to France, where Ms. Bijan was trained at the Paris-based Le Cordon Bleu Culinary Arts School and years later interned for months in two eminent restaurants in French villages.

Ms. Bijan explains early on in the book that she had written “in an attempt to find answers to the questions I never asked my parents, such as ‘How did it feel to start your life from nothing?” But as she calls upon her memories to delve into that question, another critical element of the book emerges: The writer is compelled to examine her own experiences and complex feelings as an exile — remaining devoted to her parents, honoring the culture they thrived in for six or more decades, yet knowing she must find her own place at life’s table.

On the cover: Donia Bijan squeezes lemon juice into an apple mixture, working in the backyard of her Menlo Park home. Photo by Michelle Le/The Almanac

That quest proved a challenge for the naturally shy Donia, the youngest of the late Dr. Bijan Bijan and Amy Bijan’s three daughters. But the writer describes the journey with penetrating insight, reflecting on her experiences with a sometimes jarring honesty.

“I didn’t want the book to be sentimental,” Ms. Bijan says. “A lot of memoirs can be like country music: ‘I lost my love, I lost my pickup truck, I lost my dog ...’ It’s tricky — it’s easy to fall into the sentimental trap.”

Regarding the book’s title, Ms. Bijan explains in an email: “Homesick pie is the sum of the longing and hunger I feel when I make my way to the kitchen, almost like sleep walking! And if someone were to look through our kitchen window, they would see a pair of busy hands peeling, chopping, mixing flour, butter, eggs for our dinner, but also finding other nourishment in bringing us to the table to share that meal. ... There is more than just eating when we break bread.”

Food as an essential that satisfies and nurtures far more than our physical beings is a theme returned to again and again in “Homesick Pie.” Referring to the kitchen in the Bijan home soon after her parents immigrated to their new country, Ms. Bijan writes: “Slowly we had been stocking our pantry with turmeric, cumin, saffron, cinnamon, allspice, dried fruit, lentils, fava beans, and basmati rice.

“In Iran, I had climbed onto the kitchen counter to look at my mother’s cooking spices, opening them one by one, taking in their prickly scent. Now, it reassured me to see them lined up again like stepping stones across a vast ocean.” ■

AUTHOR EVENTS

Donia Bijan will read from “Maman’s Homesick Pie” at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11 — the book’s official release date — at Kepler’s bookstore in Menlo Park. She also will be at Book Passage in San Francisco on Oct. 13, and Books Inc. in Mountain View on Oct. 25, as well as in bookstores across the state and the country. Ms. Bijan also will give a cooking demonstration at Draeger’s in Menlo Park at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16. Go to doniabijan.com for more information about the book and events.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING AND NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING CITY OF MENLO PARK PLANNING COMMISSION MEETING OF OCTOBER 17, 2011

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of the City of Menlo Park, California, is scheduled to review the following items:

PUBLIC HEARING ITEMS

Use Permit and Architectural Control/Zach Trailer/1234 Hoover Street: Request for a use permit and architectural control to demolish a three unit apartment building and to construct three, single-family dwelling units and associated site improvements, on a lot located in the R-3 (Apartment) zoning district. Three or more dwelling units are a conditional use in the R-3 (Apartment) zoning district.

Tentative Parcel Map/Steven Schwanke/664 Creek Drive: Request for a tentative parcel map for the creation of two condominium units in the R-2 (Low Density Apartment) zoning district. The existing front residence would remain, the existing rear unit would be demolished, and a new unit would be constructed. Two heritage trees, a 16-inch pitosporum and a 24.2-inch privet, are proposed to be removed to accommodate the new unit at the rear of the property.

Use Permit/Sam Sinnott for the Wine Bank/1320A Willow Road: Request for a use permit for the outside storage of hazardous materials, associated with a proposed propane generator, at an existing wine storage facility, located within the M-2 (General Industrial) zoning district. The proposed generator and storage tanks would be located in front of the existing building along Willow Road, and would be screened by a proposed metal fence. As part of this application, one heritage size silver dollar gum tree in fair condition is proposed to be removed.

REGULAR BUSINESS ITEMS

Review of Gross Floor Area Zoning Ordinance Amendment/City of Menlo Park: Two-year review of Zoning Ordinance amendment relative to the clarification of gross floor area.

NOTICE IS HEREBY FURTHER GIVEN that said Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on public hearing items in the Council Chambers of the City of Menlo Park, located at 701 Laurel Street, Menlo Park, on Monday, October 17, 2011, 7:00 p.m. or as near as possible thereafter, at which time and place interested persons may appear and be heard thereon. If you challenge this item in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City of Menlo Park at, or prior to, the public hearing.

The project file may be viewed by the public on weekdays between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Friday, with alternate Fridays closed, at the Department of Community Development, 701 Laurel Street, Menlo Park. Multimedia Advertising Sales

The Palo Alto Weekly and Embarcadero Media are seeking smart, articulate and dedicated experienced and entry-level sales professionals who are looking for a fast-paced and dynamic work environment of people committed to producing outstanding journalism and effective marketing for local businesses.

You will join our staff of talented journalists, designers, web programmers and sales people in our brand new "green" Palo Alto headquarters building in the vibrant California Ave. business district.

As a Multimedia Account Executive, you will contact and work with local businesses to expand their brand identity and support their future success using marketing and advertising opportunities available through our 3 marketing platforms: print campaigns, website advertising & email marketing.

The ideal candidate is an organized and assertive self-starter who loves working as a team to beat sales goals and possesses strong verbal, written, persuasive and listening interpersonal skills and can provide exceptional customer service.

Duties, responsibilities and skills include:

- * Understands that the sales process is more than taking orders
 - * Has a strong understanding of how consumers use the Internet
 - * Can effectively manage and cover a geographic territory of active accounts while constantly canvassing competitive media and the market for new clients via cold calling
 - * Can translate customer marketing objectives into creative and effective multi-media advertising campaigns
 - * Ability to understand and interpret marketing data to effectively overcome client objections
 - * Understands the importance of meeting deadlines in an organized manner
 - * Can manage and maintain client information in our CRM database system, is proficient in Microsoft Word and Excel and has knowledge of the Internet and social media
 - * Ability to adapt objectives, sales approaches and behaviors in response to rapidly changing situations and to manage business in a deadline-driven environment
- Compensation includes base salary plus commission, health benefits, vacation, 401k and a culture where employees are respected, supported and given the opportunity to grow.
- To apply, submit a personalized cover letter and complete resume to bjohnson@embarcaderopublishing.com
