Jericho Project member Ernie bids a slow and painful goodbye to tattooed numbers that represent letters that spell the name of an ex-girlfriend. The Jericho Project is an alternative-sentencing program for recovering addicts and criminal offenders.

Former gang member Jose, an anti-gang advocate, got his first tattoo at age 10. Redwood City Police Juvenile Specialist Manuel Velarde helps him with bandages after a laser treatment.

Fresh Start

Ex-prisoners, others turn to county's tattoo-removal service

The “ink” is a combination of water, toothpaste and colored plastic — melted checkers, for example. The “needle” is a sharpened staple. In the hands of a self-taught artist, the sort you’re likely to find in prison, these raw materials become the stuff of prison tattoos, and gang identity.

But while visible affiliation with a gang can contribute to a safe existence when you’re inside, it can be a big problem when you’re on the outside and working on a new self image. Tattoos invite unwelcome attention from gangs on the outside and uncertainty in the minds of potential employers, ex-prisoners say.

Residents of San Mateo County with unwanted tattoos used to be able to turn to the county for help in having them erased, but the service went dark about two years ago after the fizzling of the laser-driven tattoo-removal equipment.

In February 2014, the program restarted with a new machine. Run jointly by the police department in Redwood City, the county Sheriff's Office and the county probation department, a clinic now convenes on a Saturday morning every two months or so at the Bay Road home of the Police Athletic League in Redwood City.

On a recent Saturday, two groups of clients — about eight women and a dozen men — gathered in the athletic league’s recreation room. The women were there on their own; the men were affiliated with the Jericho Project in Brisbane, an alternative-sentencing program for recovering addicts and criminal offenders who make commitments to turn their lives around.

In Almanac’s interviews, most of the clients identified themselves by their first names, and a few chose anonymity. All the men were serving sentences at the Jericho Project in lieu of serving in prison for felony offenses.

Also present for the clinic were Zuzanna Likar, a nurse practitioner and laser operator; Manuel Velarde of the juvenile-services section of the Redwood City Police Department, and two San Mateo County probation officers: John Domeniconi in the rec room bantering with the men, and Carrie Cross helping Ms. Likar in the treatment room.

The $100,000 laser, funded through donations, works by detecting a tattoo’s colors and fracturing the ink into tiny particles that are all but invisible. This will happen naturally; the laser accelerates the process. Black and blue are the easiest colors to treat; white is untreatable, Ms. Likar says.

or five sessions, Ms. Likar says. She and her clients "are going to be really close friends by the time it's done," she says.

Clients emerged from the treatment bandaged, some with their arms swathed in white. The process is "very painful," Ms. Cross says. Clients are given rubber balls to squeeze, and for very large tattoos, it may be necessary to numb the area. The two-month intervals between sessions are necessary to allow the skin to recover after being blasted by the laser.

Ex-convicts usually don't complain about the pain, Ms. Cross says. "They say, 'For what I did, I deserve it.' Everybody is very grateful. The whole time, they're saying 'Thank you, thank you.'"

When San Mateo County was without its machine, on occasion Ms. Likar would treat clients at her Palo Alto facility at no cost, says Mr. Velarde. "She has a heart of gold," he adds.

Prison tattooing

Prison and jail officials don't allow tattooing behind bars, but it happens. Typically, Jericho Project members say, a session consists of the client, the artist and a lookout. "Everything's done in secret there," says Ernie.

"We try to look out for each other (and) make sure it's clean," adds Albert. "There's guys in the gang that don't have any tattoos, but you want to stand out. ... You want to advertise what you're representing, who you're running with."

"You think like a kid," says Michael. "It's a false self esteem, a fake identity. ... A guy in a gang doesn't really have a lot of courage. It's a group thing."

"I'm done with tattoos," says Pedro, bandages covering both of his forearms. The Jericho Project, he says, "helped me understand the value of my life."

Ernie says he got tattooed to fit in with everybody else while in prison. "And that's what it does until you are released, and then you're pretty much an outcast," he says. "It was a big mistake. Fortunately, we're here now."

"I was brought up by good parents and everything," says Albert, "but I just made some wrong decisions: running and cheating and stealing." Jericho has opened up possibilities now that he has a job in construction. "There's no negativity," he says. "It's all positive. I want to live an honest life. I don't want to spend the rest of my life in prison. I'm learning hands-on."

Names and roses

Among the young women, tattoos served another purpose.

A San Carlos woman, now 24, says she got herself tattooed with the name of her boyfriend, but that was seven years ago. While the name is in a spot normally hidden by clothes, it is enough that it is there. "My new boyfriend hates it," she says.

She's been waiting since 2011 for the clinic to restart. Would she ever get another tattoo? "No, never," she says.

Corina, 33, of East Palo Alto, is marked with the names of her three children, roses and the phrase "Daddy's girl." Why? "I'm an ex-addict," she says. "I was high all the time."

She's been clean for three years and is working for Voices of Recovery San Mateo County, a nonprofit with a mission of helping people with addictions and their friends and families. "I'm just trying to restore my life," she says.

Rosa, 21, of Redwood City has had a rose on her shoulder since she was 13. She has a butterfly tattooed on her pelvis. At 15, she had another rose placed on her lower back with "a guy's name" beneath it. "I thought I was in love, but what did I know," she says.

They were all mistakes, she says. "I've been studying the Bible and what not. I should basically never get another tattoo and just leave my body the way it is." ■

When my children started Oak Knoll Elementary in 2000, I had only a tiny inkling of what lay ahead for me and them. More than just a highly ranked school, this was a community of children and their families coming together every day for learning and extra-curricular activities. The school was not just a place of learning but a meeting place for parents to solidify relationships with one another and with the faculty. Oak Knoll Elementary was a life changing experience for our entire family. This event has now been expanded to include the 3 other wonderful schools in our district.

I am honored to be a team sponsor of this event! Please join me and my family for a morning of fun in the neighborhood!

‘If I want a Best Seller, I advertise in the Almanac and the Weekly.’ – Lyn Jason Cobb

As a Realtor serving Menlo Park, Palo Alto, Atherton, Portola Valley and Woodside, I do my utmost to provide extraordinary service to my clients. The Almanac and the Palo Alto Weekly is always where I advertise first because I like the home delivery, editorial focus, and it is a great value. I have always had great results promoting open homes in the Palo Alto Weekly and The Almanac, and I also run in special publications like Spring and Fall Real Estate, Neighborhoods and Info Menlo because of the great coverage and online presence. I am also a big believer in the Palo Alto Weekly's Open Home Guide, which is by far the most accurate and comprehensive. I've had many buyers bring in the guide to my 'Open Homes' to see what I have listed."

A public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, (cashier's check(s) must be made payable to National Default Servicing Corporation), drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state; will be held by the duly appointed trustee as shown below, of all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the hereinafter described property under and pursuant to a Deed of Trust described below. The amount may be greater on the day of sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee, and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. The undersigned mortgagee, beneficiary or authorized agent for the mortgagee or beneficiary pursuant to California Civil Code Section 2923.5(b) declares that the mortgagee's or beneficiary's authorized agent has either contacted the borrower or tried with due diligence to contact the borrower as required by California Civil Code Section 2923.5. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 714-730-2727 or visit this Internet Web site www.ndscorp.com/sales, using the file number assigned to this case 12-32428-JP-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF:

JOYCE EDELYN REESE
Case No.: 124496
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JOYCE EDELYN REESE.

A Petition for Probate has been filed by: ELENA L. REESE in the Superior Court of California, County of SAN MATEO. The Petition for Probate requests that: ELENA L. REESE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 16, 2014 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept.: 28, of the Superior Court of California, County of San Mateo, located at 400 County Center, Redwood City, CA 94063.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58 (b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner: /s/ George S. Cole, Esq. 495 Seaport Court, Suite 101 Redwood City, CA 94063 (650)322-7760 (ALM May 21, 28, June 4, 2014)
