

Portola Valley woman adopts tortoise refugees

By Kate Daly

Special to the Almanac

At the Hufty-Alegria home in Portola Valley, the sign posted on the gate clearly states: “Keep out, endangered wildlife habitat.” In reality, though, Dr. Mary Hufty, a family doctor at the Palo Alto Medical Foundation, couldn’t be more welcoming in sharing her unusual pets: two California desert tortoises named Duke and Heston.

Chances are they once lived in the wild since captive breeding is illegal in the state. Also known as Gopherus agassizii, the official reptile of both California and Nevada can live for up to 80 years and is naturally found in the Mojave and Sonora deserts in Southern California, Nevada and Utah.

Dr. Hufty explains that the problem starts when people pick up a tortoise in the desert, and then the animals “can’t be put back out in the wild because they have colds and diseases” that could wipe out a native population. Also, pet owners can tire of taking care of a tortoise, or “get old, and die or are disabled,” and that triggers the need for a tortoise to find a new home.

Dr. Hufty figures Duke and Heston probably lived in three or four homes by the time she adopted them a couple of years ago. “They’re like refugees, they came as a pair,” and are “theoretically 60 and 40 years old,” she says.

Dr. Hufty’s interest in tortoises started when she was a little girl growing up in central Florida. They are one of the many natural draws on the large expanse of land where her family founded the Archbold Biological Station. She now serves as board chairman of the ecological research facility.

Twenty-five years ago, Dr. Hufty’s sister-in-law surprised her with an African leopard tortoise named Leo. Dr. Hufty recalls feeling so overwhelmed with juggling a family of young kids, a husband, and a career, that she put Leo in a box to hibernate for a year.

After that he became a part of the family, along with the dogs, cats and horses until he mysteriously disappeared from their yard two years ago. Dr. Hufty says, “I was sad, lonely, and felt deserted,” and that’s what led her to go online and adopt Duke and Heston.

The tortoises arrived wearing endangered species tags and suffering from a respiratory illness that required six weeks’ worth of antibiotic injections. They appear healthier these days, weighing about 11 pounds each, with shells measuring 12 inches by 7 inches.

“These guys are really mellow. They just hang out,” Dr. Hufty says, watching them explore rocks and nibble on plants and weeds in her fenced-in side yard.

She feeds them alfalfa, grass, romaine lettuce, vegetables and cherries, and gives them warm baths about once a month. They spend every night and most of the winter (when they hibernate) in a wooden shed, comfortably tucked in under domes that rest on top of piglet warming pads set on low.

She picks up the tortoises whenever she needs to get them quickly from point A to point B, and they occasionally make a slight hissy, clucking noise. “They’re totally gentle ... everybody loves my tortoises,” Dr. Hufty says with a smile.

She belongs to the California Turtle & Tortoise Club’s Silicon Valley Chapter. The group meets in San Jose every month and has about 100 members. The organization is involved in hundreds of adoptions each year.

President Gilbert Castro says lately he’s “seeing more adoptions due to lack of education,” and refers people to the club’s website, tortoise.org, for more information. ■

Former head of Phillips Brooks School Elizabeth ‘Bitsie’ Root dies

Memorial services will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 21, in the amphitheater of the Phillips Brooks School, 2245 Avy Ave. in Menlo Park, for Elizabeth “Bitsie” Root, who died May 26. She was 81.

A key figure in the founding of Phillips Brooks School in 1978, Ms. Root was head of school from 1982 until retiring in 1997. According to a statement from Phillips Brooks School, “Bitsie touched and influenced many lives over the years. She left an incredible mark on the culture of PBS and left a legacy of educational excellence that will be honored by generations to come.”

Born Dec. 19, 1932, and raised in Brooklyn, New York, Ms. Root attended Froebel Academy, and then the Berkeley Institute (now known as the Berkeley-Carroll School).

Elizabeth Root was active in the education community.

After graduating from Connecticut College, where she majored in early childhood development, she started her career with a teaching job in Englewood, New Jersey.

When Ms. Root visited her sister, who had moved to the Bay Area, she liked the area so much she decided to move here as well. Interested in starting a school, she joined Trinity Parish School, which opened in Menlo Park in 1961. Ms. Root later taught first grade at Phillips Brooks from 1978 to 1982.

During Ms. Root’s tenure as head of Phillips Brooks, the school grew to more than 200 students in pre-kindergarten through sixth grade. She oversaw the school’s expansion into two sections per grade.

She believed in teaching moral and social values as well as academics. “When we teach responsibility, caring and sharing, children come away with the understanding that we are on earth not just to serve ourselves, but to serve others,” she said.

After retiring, Ms. Root served on the boards of Castilleja School, the International School of the Peninsula, and the Charles Armstrong School. She also served on the boards of the California Association of Independent Schools and the National Association of Independent Schools.

In 2010, she received the Outstanding Educator Award from the Morrissey-Compton Education Center.

Ms. Root married William “Bill” Epperly in 2009. The couple met while walking in their West Menlo Park neighborhood. They soon found they had many mutual interests, including classical music, opera, books, bridge and travel.

They enjoyed their retirement until about two months before Ms. Root’s death. She fell during one of their walks, and subsequent complications overwhelmed her. She died on Memorial Day.

She is survived by her husband William Epperly; sister Patricia Fouquet; brother Stephen Root; nieces Julie Fouquet, Lisa Root and Amy South; nephews David Fouquet and Michael Root; and extended family.

Memorials may be made to the Elizabeth Root Endowment Fund for Tuition Assistance at Phillips Brooks; for information, call 650-854-4545, ext. 113. ■

Jobs

500 Help Wanted

Multimedia Sales Representatives
Embarcadero Media is headquartered in Palo Alto and operates diverse media enterprises, including the region's most respected and award-winning community newspapers and specialty publications, websites and e-mail marketing products.

Locally-owned and independent for 34 years, we publish the Palo Alto Weekly, Mountain View Voice and Almanac on the Peninsula and the Pleasanton Weekly. In each of these communities our papers are the dominant, best-read and most respected among its various competitors. We also operate extremely popular interactive community news and information websites in all of our cities, plus unique online-only operations in Danville and San Ramon. Our flagship website, Palo Alto Online (<http://paloaltoonline.com>), attracts more than 150,000 unique visitors and 600,000 page views a month.

As the first newspaper in the United States to publish on the web back in 1994, the Palo Alto Weekly is recognized throughout the state and nation as a leader in transforming from a print-only news organization to an innovative multimedia company offering advertisers and readers new and effective products. In 2013, the Weekly was judged the best large weekly newspaper in the state by the California Newspaper Publishers Association. Its web operation, Palo Alto Online, was judged the best newspaper website in California.

The Palo Alto Weekly and Embarcadero Media are seeking smart, articulate and dedicated experienced and entry-level sales professionals who are looking for a fast-paced and dynamic work environment of people committed to producing outstanding journalism and effective marketing for local businesses.

As a Multimedia Account Executive, you will contact and work with local businesses to expand their brand identity and support their future success using marketing and advertising opportunities available through our 3 marketing platforms: print campaigns, website advertising and email marketing.

The ideal candidate is an organized and assertive self-starter who loves working as a team to beat sales goals and possesses strong verbal, written, persuasive and listening interpersonal skills and can provide exceptional customer service.

Duties, responsibilities and skills include:

- * Understands that the sales process is more than taking orders
- * Has a strong understanding of how consumers use the Internet
- * Can effectively manage and cover a geographic territory of active accounts while constantly canvassing competitive media and the market for new clients via cold calling
- * Can translate customer marketing objectives into creative and effective multi-media advertising campaigns
- * Ability to understand & interpret marketing data to effectively overcome client objections
- * Understands the importance of meeting deadlines in an organized manner
- * Can manage and maintain client information in our CRM database system, is proficient in Microsoft Word and Excel and has knowledge of the Internet and social media
- * Ability to adapt objectives, sales approaches and behaviors in response to rapidly changing situations and to manage business in a deadline-driven environment

Compensation includes base salary plus commission, health benefits, vacation, 401k and a culture where employees are respected, supported and given the opportunity to grow.

To apply, submit a personalized cover letter and complete resume to: Tom Zahralis, Vice President, Sales and Marketing, Embarcadero Media, 450 Cambridge Ave., Palo Alto, CA 94306. E-mail to: tzahralis@embarcaderopublishing.com

Proposition 65 Warning
L-3 Communications Randtron Antenna Systems operates facilities located at and around 130 Constitution Dr., Menlo Park which uses and emits chemicals known to the State of California to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm. We do not believe that any person is exposed to these chemicals at levels constituting a health or safety risk. However, we have not made a formal determination that actual exposure levels are below the Proposition 65 "no significant risk" levels for carcinogens or "no observable effect" levels for chemicals known to cause reproductive harm, and we have not performed a risk analysis to determine the precise amount of exposure that any individual would receive over a 70 year period. Proposition 65 therefore obligates us to provide this warning to potentially effected individuals. Further information may be obtained by contacting L-3 Randtron Antenna Systems at 650-326-9500 Ext. 483. (ALM June 11, 2014)
