Thinking Mechanically

Lessons are there for the learning in bicycle repair

Story by Dave Boyce | Photos by Magali Gauthier

It was not that long ago when ordinary people, men mostly, could assess the mechanical health of their vehicles as they motored down the road. Their senses, a few dashboard gauges and experience were enough. "Check engine" lights? They didn't need them.

The term shade-tree mechanic actually meant something. You could pick up mechanical understanding along the way, as this reporter did, and stop under a roadside tree to adjust the clutch or replace a gasket. With this skill came joy: the parts of your vehicle were once again collaborating thanks to your own understanding and efforts. You didn't design the machine, but you did get it back on the road.

While such experiences are not available with today's digitally enabled cars and trucks, they are available — on bicycles. The necessary skills can be acquired at Woodside High School and at Redwood High School (in Redwood City) through the Bike Shed program, run by Woodside resident and cross-country cyclist Oliver Bock.

"It's a real feeling of pride when you're riding on the road," says Redwood High student Joseph Jacobo, 18

and an acolyte of Mr. Bock's. "If I hear a noise, I'm able to get off and immediately service it on the road. It's awesome. It's a feeling of independence. ... You can get from A to B, knowing you'll be able to fix it."

"This kind of education doesn't exist anymore," says Mr. Bock. It's needed for kids who find it hard to engage with a reading assignment, but not hard at all when working with their hands, he says.

Mr. Jacobo says he's learned to completely rebuild his bike. "I've touched every moving part," he says. "I've learned enough that I can actually teach the kids with Oliver."

"He loves to get in there," Mr. Bock says of Mr. Jacobo. "He's really enthusiastic and helpful."

The Bike Shed program is an on-campus bike shop and bike repair for students and faculty. At Woodside High, teachers drop off bikes at a rate of about one a week, Mr. Bock says. There's a charge, but only for parts.

Mr. Bock, who is 60, says he has been a house husband and has worked in orthopedic bracing. He learned bike mechanics informally. In 2010, he piloted an electric bike from Woodside to Washington, D.C., with his sister Catherine on her own electric bike.

Outside the shed at Woodside High, Christian Medina, 17, is working on a teacher's bike. "She's having derailleur problems on a significant level," he says. Asked for his take-away on the class, he says: "Experience, lots of experience. On the first day, I didn't know what I was doing. The second day, I had the whole gear system down. ... I learned from a good teacher. Oliver is a good teacher."

Woodside student Carlos Maciel: "I like using my hands, building things and giving them to other people." He built himself a single-speed black cruiser bike with coaster brakes. "He's a little bit of a higher skill level," Mr. Bock says.

Woodside's program, which evolved from a bike riding club, has become an institution and a community resource, says Marin Aldrich, a social studies and water resources teacher in Woodside's Green Academy, from which Bike Shed students are chosen. The program also aims to make cycling inviting in getting to and from school.

In 2014, Bike Shed received a $38,000 federal grant from the Safe Routes To School program and opened a branch at Redwood High. The grant money buys parts such as bike chains and cable housings, Mr. Bock says. Parents help with donations and the Redwood City Police Department provides used bikes that would otherwise be auctioned off. "That's the part that's fun, the re-using," Mr. Bock says.

Woodside students without bikes can usually get one from the Bike Shed, Ms. Aldrich says, adding that students who don't bike to school often have simple reasons: a flat tire, a mechanical problem, a parent who sees cycling as dangerous and who is unaware of the Safe Routes program.

The emphasis at the Green Academy is on removing barriers to alternative forms of transportation, she says. When she talks about urban planning in her classes, students are encouraged to re-envision cities built around such alternatives.

One true wheel

When a bike is properly set up, it runs like clockwork. But how to get there? A certain focus is needed.

Take wheel truing. Spin a bicycle wheel on its axle and the rim should maintain a constant distance, say a quarter-inch, from the brake calipers as it goes around. If it does, it's not an accident.

A typical wheel has 28 to 36 spokes radiating from the hub to either side of a somewhat flexible rim. It's an even number because spokes work in pairs. It's the mechanic's job to find the balance in tightening a pair of spokes to achieve the correct distance from the caliper for that small portion of the rim, then use that technique right around the wheel.

"It's a little bit of a dance," Mr. Bock says. "You kind of just mess around with it. ... The more I do it, the better I get at it."

Truing lessons have the benefit of immediate feedback, he says. You see the wobble, you work the spokes until it goes away. He recalls one student who fell hard for wheel truing. "He loved it," Mr. Bock says. "If you met him, he's more of an artist, not a super mechanic."

"It's an art form," Mr. Jacobo says. "If you get a get a feel for it, you can do it pretty easily."

"I'm not too good at it," says Jose Nunez, 16, of Woodside High. "You have to know what to do. It takes a lot of patience. A lot."

Jose also works at GoRide Bicycles in Redwood City, where he used to hang out as a volunteer. The Bike Shed has taught him to work with what tools he has, he says, adding: "It helps me get out of my comfort zone."

Woodside High Principal Diane Burbank accompanied the Almanac to the campus Bike Shed. Students learn something that's difficult, she says, then hear themselves saying, "I can do that," and that learning experience is available for the next challenge. "Competence leads to confidence, and it's transferable," she says. ■

Sales Administrative Assistant

Embarcadero Media, publishers of the Palo Alto Weekly, The Almanac, Mountain View Voice, Pleasanton Weekly, PaloAltoOnline.com and several other community websites, is looking for a full-time Sales Administrative Assistant to join the sales/production team.

As a Sales Administrative Assistant, you will be responsible for supporting multiple Sales Representatives by providing data-entry support, performing client research using social media, analyzing web statistics, as well as providing operational support for our various print/digital products.

To qualify, you must possess exceptional organizational skills, be detailed-oriented, and have sound technical/computer skills.

The ideal candidate will be an outstanding proof-reader and possess excellent written and verbal communication skills. If you thrive in a busy deadline-driven environment and enjoy a team setting, then we want to hear from you.

To apply, please send a resume to Tom Zahiralis at tzahiralis@pawebkly.com

We're hiring

Associate Editor at the Palo Alto Weekly

The award-winning news organization Palo Alto Weekly/PaloAltoOnline.com is seeking a well-rounded journalist to become our new associate editor. The ideal candidate is equally comfortable editing hard and soft news and possesses the creativity, organizational aptitude, focus on quality and adroitness in interpersonal communications to guide publications from start to finish.

Our associate editor plays a key role as the deputy head of the department, helping to ensure the smooth operation of the team and leading the department in the absence of the editor-in-chief. Experience as a news reporter or editor is desired, as is knowledge of the Palo Alto community. An enjoyment of teamwork and the ability to develop writers, including interns and freelancers, are musts.

The ideal candidate will have a strong interest in home and real estate topics, the position's main beat. New to the job will be the responsibility to push the bounds of digital presentation on those topics. Beyond real estate, the associate editor is involved in news coverage, arts, cover stories and special publications.

This is a benefited position, offering health insurance and a 401(k) savings plan, paid vacation, paid sick time and paid company holidays. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer.

To apply, please submit a cover letter detailing how your experience fits the needs of the position. Also attach your resume, three articles you've written and links to two publications or sections you've edited. Email the materials, with "Associate Editor" in the subject line, to Editor Jocelyn Dong at jdong@pawebkly.com. No phone calls, please.

Woodside High musicians shine at So Cal festival

By Chuck Velschow, Woodside High School communications coordinator.

Woodside High School musicians won top honors at the Worldstrides' Heritage Festival competition in Anaheim on April 11-12. Both the jazz and concert bands finished with gold awards, and the string band received a silver award.

In the Instrumental Sweepstakes Award (the school with highest combined total of at least two types of instrumental groups), Woodside won the "Most Outstanding" award in both the "Band" and "Jazz" categories.

Five students won the Maestro Award for individual performances: Austen Jack (drum set), Nariman Pournajat (soprano sax), Spencer Riewerts (trombone), Jeffrey Shaw (trumpet) and Jessie Sosa (tenor sax).

As result of their performances, both the concert and jazz bands were invited to the 2016 National Invitational Festival of Gold performance series for select ensembles.

The competition was part of a three-day gathering that included workshops and concerts at local high schools.

Marcos Torres named WHS student of week

By Chuck Velschow, Woodside High School communications coordinator.

This June senior Marcos Torres will be graduating from Woodside High School wearing an orange gown, and in the fall he will trade in the familiar orange and white for orange again <0x2014> this time at Oregon State University.

Marcos Torres

Marcos benefited from a program established more than 30 years ago throughout schools in California. It's called AVID for Advancement Via Individual Determination. He credits the program for providing academic support and helping him with the college admissions process,

He visited the Oregon State campus on an AVID trip.

His AVID teacher, Lisa Camera, gives the credit to Marcos. "He is organized, enthusiastic and genuinely interested in what he is learning," Ms. Camera says. "As an AVID tutor, he provides guidance and instruction while challenging students to think for themselves."

Marcos hopes to study pre-law, eventually attend law school, and then work in the legal field or for government.

Besides the support of AVID, Marcos said he has been inspired by Muhammad Ali, the legendary boxer. "He was never afraid to speak his mind and stand up for what he believes in," says Marcos, who has followed a straight-forward strategy for success: "Everything I do must be done with full effort work now, play later."

Three M-A students awarded National Merit scholarships

Three Menlo-Atherton High School students — Christopher W. Jarrett, Ryan J. Cole and Alexander Anand Iyer — now share a distinction also enjoyed by economists Paul Krugman and Ben Bernanke, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Elena Kagan and U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Susan Rice, not to mention Microsoft Corp. entrepreneurs Bill Gates and Steve Ballmer.

Mr. Jarrett, Mr. Cole and Mr. Iyer were awarded scholarships from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. Each student received a $2,500 scholarship, the organization announced.

Hanson P. Tam, a resident of Hillsborough and a student at Menlo School in Atherton, also won a $2,500 scholarship.

Mr. Jarrett is considering a career in physics; Mr. Cole, in computer science; Mr. Iyer, in medicine; and Mr. Tam, in medical research.

The committee of college admissions officers and high school counselors that picked the winners considered a student's academic record, degree of difficulty of courses studied, grades, standardized test scores, community and leadership activities, a student essay and a recommendation by a school official.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE YOU ARE IN

DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED May 5, 1994. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDINGS AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. On June 16, 2015 at 01:00 PM, Marshall St. Entrance, San Mateo County Courthouse, Southern Branch Hall of Justice & Records, 400 County Center, Redwood City, CA 94063, MTC Financial Inc. dba Trustee Corps, as the duly Appointed Trustee, under and pursuant to the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust Recorded on May 11, 1994 as Instrument No. 94083669 of official records in the Office of the Recorder of San Mateo County, California, executed by DAVID M. CHODOS AND LORRAINE CHODOS, HUSBAND AND WIFE, as Trustor(s), in favor of AMERICAN SAVINGS BANK, F.A. as Beneficiary, WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER, in lawful money of the United States, all payable at the time of sale, that certain property situated in said County, California describing the land therein as: AS MORE FULLY DESCRIBED IN SAID DEED OF TRUST The property heretofore described is being sold "as is". The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 9 SEQUOIA DRIVE, LA HONDA, CA 94020 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the Note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said Note(s), advances if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligations secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of this Notice of Trustee's Sale is estimated to be $150,979.80 (Estimated). However, prepayment premiums, accrued interest and advances will increase this figure prior to sale. Beneficiary's bid at said sale may include all or part of said amount. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the California Financial Code and authorized to do business in California, or other such funds as may be acceptable to the Trustee. In the event tender other than cash is accepted, the Trustee may withhold the issuance of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale until funds become available to the payee or endorsee as a matter of right. The property offered for sale excludes all funds held on account by the property receiver, if applicable. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call Auction.com at 800.280.2832 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Web site address www.Auction.com for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08006705-14-1. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.
